Converting your license

Licence Conversions

New Zealand Private Pilot's Licence is recognised universally by all other ICAO member countries.

However, each country's aviation authority have their specific requirements for conversion. Once you gain your NZ PPL, to convert it to any other ICAO equivalent, see the website information of the Aviation Authority of the specific country.

For overseas visitors who hold any ICAO pilots licence, you are able to convert you qualification directly to a New Zealand licence equivalent.
